

Monday Morning Memo – 09.14.2020

Dear Wider Horizons Members and Friends,

Wider Horizons Activities and Events:

1. Our Board of Directors meets today from 11:30 am – 2:00 pm. I've attached the PDF containing all the documents they will be reviewing. I'll be happy to answer your questions, but not this morning!
2. The regular Thursday morning 9:30 am Zoom is hosted by Sue Lerner and Debbie Ward and an invitation with questions will go out later this week.
3. This will be a phone tree week and the phone tree will begin on Tuesday after I have a conference call with the lead callers.

Member-Provided or Recommended Material

1. From Bob Anderson:

I participated in the Kaiser Senior Caucus zoom meeting recently and found the following quote very appealing as a framework for what we are up to as a village. It is from Titilayo Tinubu Ali who said: “Let’s normalize needing support calling it shared strength.” I think that is what we are doing-- sharing our strength as a community of older adults. It reframes the way we support each other and the community. Just thought to share this with you all.

2. From Kathleen O'Connor, an interesting-sounding local event: <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/unleashing-potential-for-all-part-3-lifting-youth-voices-tickets-116753162853>
3. From Ellen Berg, Edmonds College's Creative Retirement Institute registration is now open: <https://ce.edcc.edu/lifelong-learning/cri/default.html>
4. Terry Morton, a friend of Wider Horizons, is an artist and has a show in West Seattle. I love her work! The show consists of 15 works of art on view at the John L. Scott Real Estate Office in the West Seattle Junction. Her paintings will be on display until October 1st. So, there is plenty of time to drop by, though dropping by ain't what it used to be! See the attached invite.

Margaret Fisher and I did take possession of two kitties—brother and sister: an orange tabby male (Paprika) and a tortoiseshell female (Nutmeg). They will be sheltering in her bedroom for a couple of weeks and then, hopefully, I can become their loving “auntie.”

Pictures will be forthcoming. I am told by cat lovers that you can't see too many cute kitty photos.

Yours,

Denise
