

Monday Morning Memo – 10.05.2020

Dear Wider Horizons Members and Friends,

Wider Horizons Activities and Events:

1. This week, our first All-Member Zoom, hosted by Bob Anderson and Susan Adler, will take place tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon at 3 pm. Here is the Zoom Address: <https://uso2web.zoom.us/j/4241332129> -- I'll send out the questions in a separate email.

2. The second All-Member Zoom, hosted by Sue Lerner with help from Debbie Ward, takes place as usual at 9:30 am on Thursday. Here is that Zoom address:

<https://uso2web.zoom.us/j/89465060697> -- Save it to make your life less hectic!

3. Wider Horizons is hosting a Zoom Forum on Sunday, November 1, from 3-5 pm, with presenter R. James Addison. James will be presenting ideas from his 2019 book, Tragic Investment: How Race Sabotages Communities and Jeopardizes America's Future—and What We Can Do about It. James is currently a training consultant with Crossroads Antiracism Organizing and Training, an organization dedicated to building racial justice in institutions. Previously, he worked as a training and community development consultant throughout the US and abroad, living and working in a variety of nations.
4. Our fall fundraising letters will go out in a few weeks. Meanwhile, ponder what Wider Horizons has meant to you and the importance of making a donation (of any size) to assure our financial viability going forward. Here is what one member had to say: I retired from a job I loved, moved Seattle to be close to my daughter and her family and found I was having difficulty meeting new people. Julie Anderson invited me to lunch and introduced me to Denise Klein. By the end of a long lunch I had met a new friend, joined Wider Horizons, found myself at meetings, opened my home to meetings and successful charity events, and participated in working groups. I finally found my community and the sweetness of new and valued friendships. I could not be happier! Jane Cotler.
